

Course Directors:

Rupert Skilbeck, Open Society Justice Initiative, New York, USA
Zaza Namoradze, Open Society Justice Initiative, Budapest, Hungary

Additional Faculty:

Ben Batros, Open Society Justice Initiative, New York, USA
Maxim Ferschtman, Open Society Justice Initiative, New York, USA
James Goldston A., Open Society Justice Initiative, New York, USA
Michael Hamilton, CEU, Human Rights Program, Budapest, Hungary
Tracey Gurd, Open Society Justice Initiative, New York, USA
Chidi Odinkalu, Open Society Justice Initiative, New York, USA
Darian Pavli, Open Society Justice Initiative, New York, USA
Renata Uitz, CEU, Human Rights Program, Budapest, Hungary

BRIEF COURSE DESCRIPTION

Human rights litigation is one of the methods by which civil society organizations can bring about social change. This course for human rights professionals will develop the skills and knowledge needed to successfully bring cases to the regional human rights systems and the UN Treaty bodies. Participants will be invited to provide information on concrete cases that they are involved in which will be discussed during the course.

The course includes modules that examine the steps involved in strategic litigation, such as case selection, client care, and forum choice, as well as the specific legal stages of admissibility, exhausting domestic remedies and preparing substantive arguments. Case studies will examine how to build a strong evidential record in support of the case, how to develop campaigning and advocacy to raise awareness of the issues involved, and how to implement a successful judgment.

A faculty of human rights practitioners from the Open Society Justice Initiative and academics from Central European University will be joined by visiting experts, creating a wide body of expertise. Workshops will focus on key skills such as advocacy in support of litigation, human rights research, legal drafting, communications, and dealing with the ethical problems that arise in human rights cases. Modules in specific subject areas will allow participants to examine key issues in their field, including discrimination, freedom of expression and information, violations in the context of migration or national security, torture and ill-treatment in detention, and rights upon arrest and at trial.

Central European University's summer school (CEU SUN), established in 1996, is a program in English for graduate students, junior or post-doctoral researchers, teachers and professionals. It offers high-level, research-oriented, interdisciplinary academic courses as well as workshops on policy issues for professional development, taught by internationally renowned scholars and policy experts (including CEU faculty). Application from all over the world is encouraged. Financial aid is available.

Application deadline: February 15, 2012

Online application:

<https://apply.embarc.com/NonDegree/CEU/>

For further academic information on the course and on eligibility criteria and funding options please visit the web site

<http://summer.ceu.hu/litigation-2012>

CEU Summer University

✉ P.O. Box: Budapest 5, P.f.: 1082, H-1245,

☎ (36 1) 327 3811, Fax: (36-1) 327-3124

E-mail: summeru@ceu.hu

Skype: ceu-sun

Non-discrimination policy statement

Central European University does not discriminate on the basis of – including, but not limited to – race, color, national and ethnic origin, religion, gender or sexual orientation in administering its educational policies, admissions policies, scholarship and loan programs, and athletic and other school-administered programs.